Mawa.com Inc. Publishing House Division, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English. Brand new Book. This is the paperback edited version of the book and story of Bruce Hawes being a consistent hit music songwriter from a teenager in the recording industry, starting at Philadelphia International Records company, up to the present day in 2015. As in many stories there were triumphs and tragedies. In my story however, there were many lessons as well. And there were greater lessons that I learned after being deceived, and cheated many times. But I became successful in spite of those obstructions that stood in my way. My tragedies did not start nor stop once I was immersed in the business. But I found out along the way that there were a lot of wasted efforts and opportunities. This was not the case in the Jefferson, Hawes and Simmons writing team office and many other offices. But yes, there was one team who saw their chance at success just pass-them-by. You see this group took the casting couch approach. The only things they produced were a lot of moans, groans and unfulfilled promises of stardom. With hindsight always being 20-20, I look back now and see the loss of the one true love of my life, Barbara Ingram, as having a life changing effect upon me. Barbara was not only my life partner, but also my one woman cheering squad. No matter where I had to go, for whatever reason, I could close my eyes and see her smile of encouragement. To this day I can still hear her infectious giggle saying, "Wait until the world hears what you can do!" The first tragedy I experienced, was when I came home from New York with Rena Sinakin, my life long friend and Co-Producer...
